What is Persuasive Writing?

Persuasive writing is a type of writing where the writer tries to convince the reader to agree with an opinion or take an action.

A good persuasive writer gives clear reasons and examples to explain why their opinion is important.

Example:
I believe students should read every day because reading improves vocabulary, knowledge and imagination.

Key Features of Persuasive Writing

A clear opinion – Tell the reader what you believe.

Strong reasons – Give two or three reasons to support your opinion.

Examples or explanations – Explain each reason so the reader understands your point.

Persuasive words and phrases – Use language that encourages the reader to agree.

Rhetorical questions – Ask questions that make the reader think.

Linking words – Connect your ideas smoothly.

A strong conclusion – Restate your opinion and end with a convincing thought or call to action.

Topic: Students Should Help with Small Jobs at Home

Have you ever thought about how many jobs need to be done at home every day? Parents are often busy with cooking, cleaning, and work, so I believe students should help with small jobs at home.

Firstly, helping at home teaches responsibility. Making the bed, arranging books, or putting away toys helps children learn to care for their belongings. These habits can also make them more independent.

Secondly, sharing small jobs makes life easier for the whole family. Simple tasks like setting the table, watering plants, or folding clothes can save parents time and show teamwork.

Some children may think housework is boring, but most small jobs take only a few minutes. Helping can also make children feel proud and useful.

In conclusion, students should help at home because it teaches responsibility, independence, and teamwork. If everyone helps a little, the home becomes happier, cleaner, and more organised each day.

Q. Write a persuasive composition on the topic: Students Should Choose Their Own Library Books

Word Limit: 150-180

You may Include:

Introduction- What kinds of books do students enjoy reading? Why is it important for students to have a choice? Why should students be allowed to choose their own library books?

Body- How can choosing their own books make students more interested in reading? How can it help students discover new topics and ideas? How can choosing suitable books help students become more independent readers?

Conclusion- Why should students be trusted to choose their own books? How can this encourage better reading habits? What role should teachers and librarians play in guiding students while still giving them freedom to choose?

Guideline #2:

Use sentence starters. For kids who stare at a blank page, provide starters like:

- "I believe that..."
- "One reason is..."
- "For example..."
- "Some people might think..., but..."
- "That is why I believe..."

Paragraph 1: State your opinion. Tell the reader exactly what you believe and why they should care. "I believe every school should have a class pet, and here are three reasons why."

Paragraph 2: Reason #1 with evidence. Give your strongest argument first. Include a specific example or fact.

Paragraph 3: Reason #2 with evidence. Your second strongest argument.

Paragraph 4: Address the other side. This is the part most kids skip, and it's the part that makes the biggest difference. "Some people might say class pets are too much work. But actually, taking care of a pet teaches students responsibility."

Paragraph 5: Conclusion. Restate your opinion and leave the reader with something to think about.

Q1: Write a persuasive composition on the topic : Students Should Choose Their Own Library Books

Word Limit : 150 – 180

I believe students should choose their own library books because it makes reading more fun and interesting. Some students like storybooks, some like science books, and others like adventure books. Everyone has different interests.

Firstly, students enjoy reading more when they choose their favourite books. For example, a student who loves animals will enjoy reading books about animals.

Secondly, choosing books helps students learn new things because they can explore different topics. For example, they can read about space, nature, history, and science.

Moreover, choosing books makes students independent because they learn to make their own decisions. For example, they can choose a book that matches their age and interests.

In conclusion, students should have the freedom to choose their own library books. Teachers and librarians can help them choose good books. If students can choose their favourite books, they will love reading more and become better learners.

Q2 : Write a persuasive composition on the topic : Should schools have a mandatory physical education program?

I believe schools should have a mandatory physical education program because exercise is important for every student. It helps students stay healthy, active, and happy.

Firstly, physical education keeps students physically fit because they get regular exercise. For example, students can play football, run, and do different exercises at school.

Secondly, it helps students feel fresh and active because exercise reduces stress. For example, after playing outdoor games, students can feel relaxed and ready to study.

Moreover, physical education teaches teamwork because students play games together. For example, when students play football or cricket, they learn how to work with others and help their teammates.

In conclusion, every school should have a mandatory physical education program. Teachers should encourage students to take part in sports and exercise. A healthy body helps students build a healthy mind, so every school should make physical education important.

Q3 : Write a persuasive composition on the topic : Why Everyone Should Spend Time Outdoors

I believe everyone should spend time outdoors because it is good for our health and mind. Spending time outside makes us feel fresh, happy, and active.

Firstly, going outdoors helps us stay healthy because we get fresh air and exercise. For example, we can walk, run, or ride a bicycle in a park.

Secondly, spending time outdoors makes us feel happy because it helps reduce stress. For example, we can sit under a tree, enjoy the sunshine, and relax our minds.

Moreover, outdoor activities help us learn new things because we can explore nature. For example, we can see different birds, trees, flowers, and beautiful places.

In conclusion, everyone should spend some time outdoors every day. Parents and teachers should encourage children to play outside instead of spending too much time on mobile phones. Spending time outdoors makes our lives healthier, happier, and more enjoyable.

Q4 : Write a persuasive composition on the topic : Should Children Eat Healthy Food Instead of Junk Food?

I believe children should eat healthy food instead of junk food because healthy food keeps our bodies strong and healthy. Eating good food is important for everyone.

Firstly, healthy food helps children grow properly because it gives them vitamins and energy. For example, fruits, vegetables, eggs, and milk help children stay strong.

Secondly, healthy food protects us from diseases because it gives our bodies important nutrients. For example, eating fresh fruits and vegetables can help us stay healthy.

Moreover, eating healthy food helps children study better because it gives them energy and keeps their minds active. For example, eating a healthy breakfast before school helps students pay attention in class.

In conclusion, children should eat more healthy food and avoid eating too much junk food. Parents should encourage their children to eat fresh and homemade food. Healthy food makes us strong, active, and happy, so we should choose healthy food every day.
