2:57 ··· 69
G-4_HIS_Napoleon_...

Glenrich INTERNATIONAL SCHOOL | School of Life

Book: Children's World History

Chapter: 5, NAPOLEON BONAPARTE

Grade 4 History • Cambridge Demo LOT, MOT and HOT Question & Answer Handout

How to answer: Read the command word carefully. Use facts from the lesson, explain your ideas in complete sentences, and give a reason or example when the question asks you to explain, compare or evaluate.

Cambridge command words to remember

- Name / Identify / State — Give a fact or short answer.
- Describe — Say what happened or give details.
- Explain — Give a reason and show how or why something happened.
- Compare — Say what is similar and/or different.
- Suggest — Use what you know to give a sensible idea.
- How far do you agree? / Evaluate — Give a judgement and support it with reasons. For Grade 4, one clear reason may be enough.

A. LOT — Lower Order Thinking

Focus: recall and identify key facts from the lesson.

1. When and where was Napoleon Bonaparte born?
Answer: Napoleon was born on 15 August 1769 in Corsica. Corsica is the island where he spent his early years.

2. State Napoleon's role before he became Emperor of France.
Answer: Napoleon became First Consul before becoming Emperor. As First Consul, he was the most powerful person in France.

3. Name the two countries whose forces Napoleon defeated at the Battle of Austerlitz.
Answer: Napoleon defeated Austrian and Russian forces at Austerlitz in 1805. This victory became one of his most famous military successes.

4. What was the aim of the Continental System?
Answer: The aim was to weaken Britain by stopping European countries from trading with it. Napoleon hoped that trade restrictions would reduce Britain's power.

5. Name the island where Napoleon was first exiled.
Answer: Napoleon was first exiled to Elba after he stepped down in 1814. He was allowed to rule the island and keep the title of Emperor.

6. What was the Hundred Days?
Answer: The Hundred Days was the short period in 1815 when Napoleon escaped from Elba, returned to France and briefly regained power.

7. When and where did Napoleon die?
Answer: Napoleon died on 5 May 1821 on the island of St Helena, where he had been sent after his defeat at Waterloo.

8. What was the purpose of the Legion of Honour?

Glenrich INTERNATIONAL SCHOOL | School of Life

Answer: Napoleon created the Legion of Honour to recognise achievements by civilians and members of the military. It remains France's highest decoration.

B. MOT — Middle Order Thinking

Focus: describe events and explain causes or results.

1. Describe how Napoleon first became famous as a military leader.
Answer: During the French Revolution, Napoleon commanded the artillery at the siege of Toulon. His plan helped republican forces capture the city, and he was promoted to brigadier general. This success helped him gain recognition.

2. Explain how Napoleon became Emperor of France.
Answer: Napoleon first became First Consul and the most powerful person in France. After an assassination plot was stopped, he restored imperial rule and declared himself Emperor on 2 December 1804 at Notre-Dame de Paris.

3. Describe two important results of Napoleon's victory at Austerlitz.
Answer: At Austerlitz in 1805, Napoleon defeated Austrian and Russian forces. Austria gave up territory after the defeat, and Napoleon's victory increased French influence in Europe.

4. Explain why the Continental System did not achieve its aim.
Answer: The system tried to weaken Britain by stopping trade with it, but some countries did not follow the rules. Portugal continued to trade, and Napoleon invaded Portugal and Spain. The restrictions did not defeat Britain through trade.

5. Describe why the French army suffered during the invasion of Russia in 1812.

2:57 ··· 69
G-4_HIS_Napoleon_...

B. MOT — Middle Order Thinking

Focus: describe events and explain causes or results.

1. Describe how Napoleon first became famous as a military leader.
Answer: During the French Revolution, Napoleon commanded the artillery at the siege of Toulon. His plan helped republican forces capture the city, and he was promoted to brigadier general. This success helped him gain recognition.

2. Explain how Napoleon became Emperor of France.
Answer: Napoleon first became First Consul and the most powerful person in France. After an assassination plot was stopped, he restored imperial rule and declared himself Emperor on 2 December 1804 at Notre-Dame de Paris.

3. Describe two important results of Napoleon's victory at Austerlitz.
Answer: At Austerlitz in 1805, Napoleon defeated Austrian and Russian forces. Austria gave up territory after the defeat, and Napoleon's victory increased French influence in Europe.

4. Explain why the Continental System did not achieve its aim.
Answer: The system tried to weaken Britain by stopping trade with it, but some countries did not follow the rules. Portugal continued to trade, and Napoleon invaded Portugal and Spain. The restrictions did not defeat Britain through trade.

5. Describe why the French army suffered during the invasion of Russia in 1812.
Answer: Russian forces moved deeper into Russia, making it difficult for French troops to find food and supplies. Much of Moscow had been burned when Napoleon arrived. The French retreat was made worse by hunger, difficult conditions and the harsh winter.

6. Explain how Napoleon lost power in 1814.
Answer: After the French army suffered losses, several countries joined the Sixth Coalition against Napoleon. The coalition defeated his army at Leipzig and captured Paris in March 1814. Napoleon then stepped down under the Treaty of Fontainebleau and was exiled to Elba.

7. Describe what happened to Napoleon after he returned from Elba.
Answer: Napoleon returned to Paris on 20 March 1815 and ruled for a short period called the Hundred Days. He fought allied forces at Waterloo, was defeated and captured, and was sent to St Helena for exile.

8. Explain two ways Napoleon changed France through reforms.
Answer: Napoleon introduced reforms in education and taxation and helped establish the Banque de France. He also introduced the Napoleonic Code, which supported legal equality for men and reduced many privileges of the nobility.

C. HOT — Higher Order Thinking

Focus: explain links, suggest reasons, compare ideas and make a supported judgement.

1. Explain how Napoleon's education and family may have helped shape him as a leader.
Answer: Napoleon studied at military schools and became an artillery officer, so his education gave him useful military knowledge. His family, especially his mother, influenced him as he grew up. These experiences may have helped shape his ambitions and prepared him for leadership.

Glenrich INTERNATIONAL SCHOOL | School of Life Istanbul

2. How could a successful military plan change a person's career? Use Napoleon's experience at Toulon as an example.
Answer: A successful plan can help an army win and show that its leader is capable. At Toulon, Napoleon's plan helped republican forces capture the city. This success brought him recognition and promotion to brigadier general, helping his military career grow.

3. Explain how a military victory can change a country's power and territory.
Answer: A victory can weaken the defeated country and give the winner more influence. After Austerlitz, Austria gave up territory. This shows that the result of a battle can affect borders and the balance of power between countries.

4. Why might a trade boycott be difficult to enforce across many countries?
Answer: Countries depend on trade for goods and money, so they may not want to stop trading. Some leaders may disagree with the rule or find ways around it. Portugal did not follow Napoleon's Continental System, showing that one leader could not easily control trade across Europe.

5. Explain how disagreement between political and religious leaders can lead to conflict.
Answer: Political leaders make decisions about how a country is governed, while religious leaders guide their religious communities. If they disagree about authority or rules, each side may try to defend its position. Napoleon's conflict with Pope Pius VII grew when Napoleon took control of the Papal States and the Pope excommunicated him.

6. Explain why distance, weather and supplies affected Napoleon's invasion of Russia.
Answer: The French army travelled a long way into Russia, so delivering food and supplies became difficult. Russian forces moved deeper into the country, and much of Moscow was burned. Hunger, difficult conditions and the harsh winter weakened the French army during its retreat.

7. Why might countries join together against a powerful ruler? Use the Sixth Coalition as an example.
Answer: Countries may join together if they fear that one ruler is becoming too powerful or threatening their independence. After French losses in Russia, countries including Prussia, Austria, Russia and Britain joined the Sixth Coalition. Together, they could bring more soldiers and resources against Napoleon.

8. Suggest why Napoleon was exiled to Elba after he lost power instead of being kept in France.
Answer: Exile removed Napoleon from France and reduced his chance of quickly regaining control there. He was allowed to rule Elba and keep the title of Emperor, but he was separated from the centre of French politics. However, he later escaped and returned to France.

9. Explain how the condition of the battlefield may affect the result of a battle. Use Waterloo as an

3. Explain how a military victory can change a country's power and territory.
Answer: A victory can weaken the defeated country and give the winner more influence. After Austerlitz, Austria gave up territory. This shows that the result of a battle can affect borders and the balance of power between countries.

4. Why might a trade boycott be difficult to enforce across many countries?
Answer: Countries depend on trade for goods and money, so they may not want to stop trading. Some leaders may disagree with the rule or find ways around it. Portugal did not follow Napoleon's Continental System, showing that one leader could not easily control trade across Europe.

5. Explain how disagreement between political and religious leaders can lead to conflict.
Answer: Political leaders make decisions about how a country is governed, while religious leaders guide their religious communities. If they disagree about authority or rules, each side may try to defend its position. Napoleon's conflict with Pope Pius VII grew when Napoleon took control of the Papal States and the Pope excommunicated him.

6. Explain why distance, weather and supplies affected Napoleon's invasion of Russia.
Answer: The French army travelled a long way into Russia, so delivering food and supplies became difficult. Russian forces moved deeper into the country, and much of Moscow was burned. Hunger, difficult conditions and the harsh winter weakened the French army during its retreat.

7. Why might countries join together against a powerful ruler? Use the Sixth Coalition as an example.
Answer: Countries may join together if they fear that one ruler is becoming too powerful or threatening their independence. After French losses in Russia, countries including Prussia, Austria, Russia and Britain joined the Sixth Coalition. Together, they could bring more soldiers and resources against Napoleon.

8. Suggest why Napoleon was exiled to Elba after he lost power instead of being kept in France.
Answer: Exile removed Napoleon from France and reduced his chance of quickly regaining control there. He was allowed to rule Elba and keep the title of Emperor, but he was separated from the centre of French politics. However, he later escaped and returned to France.

9. Explain how the condition of the battlefield may affect the result of a battle. Use Waterloo as an example.
Answer: Wet, muddy ground can slow soldiers and make it harder to move equipment or follow a battle plan. At Waterloo, the French army was defeated on wet, muddy ground. Battlefield conditions can therefore affect how effectively an army fights, although they are not the only reason a battle is won or lost.

10. Compare Napoleon's military legacy with his legal legacy.
Answer: Napoleon's military legacy includes his campaigns, victories such as Austerlitz, and defeat at Waterloo. His legal legacy includes the Napoleonic Code, which supported legal equality for men and influenced laws in parts of Europe, Africa and the Americas. He is remembered both for war and for changes to laws and government.

11. How far do you agree that Napoleon should be remembered as a reformer as well as a military leader? Give reasons.
Answer: I agree to a large extent because Napoleon was a successful military commander, but he also changed France's laws and government. He introduced reforms in education and taxation and helped establish the Banque de France. The Napoleonic Code influenced laws in other parts of the world, so his legacy was not only about battles.

12. Explain how laws can continue to influence countries after the person who introduced them has died.
Answer: Later governments may keep useful laws, adapt them or use them as models. The Napoleonic Code influenced laws in parts of Europe, Africa and the Americas even after Napoleon's lifetime. This shows that legal reforms can have a long-lasting effect.

Quick revision: key terms

- Revolution — A major change in a country's government or society, often brought about by people's actions.
- Artillery — The part of an army that uses large guns and cannons.
- The Directory — The revolutionary government in France during Napoleon's time.
- Royalist — A person who supports rule by a monarch.
- Boycott — Refusing to use or buy something as a form of protest.
- Excommunicated — Officially excluded from a religious group.
- Imperialism — Extending a country's power by taking control of other places.
- Treaty — A formal agreement between countries.
- Exile — Being forced to live away from one's own country or home, often for political reasons.

Study tip: For "explain" questions, try this structure: point + reason + example from Napoleon's life.

In a Nutshell (1)

Napoleon was born in Corsica in 1769.

He received a good education and became an artillery officer.

He gained the support of the Directory.

He became First Consul and the most powerful man in France.

He crowned himself Emperor on 2 December 1804.

His victory at Austerlitz defeated the Third Coalition of Britain, Austria, and Russia.

Recall: What year did Napoleon become Emperor?

Think: Which early event helped Napoleon become famous?

In a Nutshell (2)

The French were defeated in the Peninsular War.

The invasion of Russia caused great suffering for the French army.

Napoleon defeated the Sixth Coalition in several battles but was later forced to step down.

He was exiled to Elba, escaped, returned to Paris, and ruled briefly.

He was defeated at Waterloo and sent to St Helena, where he died in 1821.

He is remembered as a military commander and for the Napoleonic Code, which influenced laws in Europe, Africa, and the Americas.

Recall: Where was Napoleon sent after Waterloo?

Think: Which parts of Napoleon's legacy were military, and which were about laws?

Word Trove / Keywords (1)

1. Ancestry — the people in your family who lived long ago; your family's origins.
2. Attorney — a person qualified to argue cases in court.
3. Royalist — a person who supports rule by a monarch.
4. Artillery — the part of an army that uses large guns, cannons, and missiles.
5. The Directory — the revolutionary government in France during Napoleon's time.

Recall: What does 'royalist' mean?

Think: Why would artillery be important in a battle?

Word Trove / Keywords (2)

6. Imperialism — extending a country's power by taking control of other places.
7. Dissolution — breaking up or coming to an end.
8. Boycott — refusing to use or buy something as a form of protest.
9. Excommunicated — officially excluded from a religious group.

Recall: Where was Napoleon sent after Waterloo?

Think: Which parts of Napoleon's legacy were military, and which were about laws?

Word Trove / Keywords (1)

1. Ancestry — the people in your family who lived long ago; your family's origins.
2. Attorney — a person qualified to argue cases in court.
3. Royalist — a person who supports rule by a monarch.
4. Artillery — the part of an army that uses large guns, cannons, and missiles.
5. The Directory — the revolutionary government in France during Napoleon's time.

Recall: What does 'royalist' mean?

Think: Why would artillery be important in a battle?

Word Trove / Keywords (2)

6. Imperialism — extending a country's power by taking control of other places.
7. Dissolution — breaking up or coming to an end.
8. Boycott — refusing to use or buy something as a form of protest.
9. Excommunicated — officially excluded from a religious group.
10. Abduct — to take someone away by force; kidnap.

Recall: What does 'boycott' mean?

Think: How is a boycott different from an invasion?

Answer Key: Core Questions

Suggested elaborated answers for teacher reference

1. A revolution is a major change in a country's government or society, often caused by people's actions.
2. People may want change, rights, fair treatment, or relief from serious problems.
3. A revolution may change leaders, laws, rights, and how a country is governed.

Answer Key: Early Life & Military General

Suggested elaborated answers for teacher reference

Early Life Q1: Napoleon was born in Corsica on 15 August 1769.

2:59 ··· 68
Napoleon_Bonaparte...

Word Trove / Keywords (2)

6. Imperialism — extending a country's power by taking control of other places.
7. Dissolution — breaking up or coming to an end.
8. Boycott — refusing to use or buy something as a form of protest.
9. Excommunicated — officially excluded from a religious group.
10. Abduct — to take someone away by force; kidnap.

Recall: What does 'boycott' mean?

Think: How is a boycott different from an invasion?

Answer Key: Core Questions

Suggested elaborated answers for teacher reference

1. A revolution is a major change in a country's government or society, often caused by people's actions.
2. People may want change, rights, fair treatment, or relief from serious problems.
3. A revolution may change leaders, laws, rights, and how a country is governed.

Answer Key: Early Life & Military General

Suggested elaborated answers for teacher reference

Early Life Q1: Napoleon was born in Corsica on 15 August 1769.

Early Life HOT: Education gave him military knowledge, while his family—especially his mother—helped shape his character and ambitions.

Military Q1: He was the artillery commander of the republican forces at the siege of Toulon.

Military HOT: A successful plan can win a battle, bring recognition, and lead to promotion or greater responsibility.

Answer Key: Emperor & Austerlitz

Suggested elaborated answers for teacher reference

Becomes Emperor Q1: He was First Consul before becoming Emperor.

Becomes Emperor HOT: Becoming emperor gave Napoleon a stronger personal hold on government and made his rule hereditary in style.

Austerlitz Q1: He defeated Austrian and Russian forces.

Austerlitz HOT: Victory can force a defeated country to give up land and can increase the winner's

Answer Key: Emperor & Austerlitz

Suggested elaborated answers for teacher reference

Becomes Emperor Q1: He was First Consul before becoming Emperor.

Becomes Emperor HOT: Becoming emperor gave Napoleon a stronger personal hold on government and made his rule hereditary in style.

Austerlitz Q1: He defeated Austrian and Russian forces.

Austerlitz HOT: Victory can force a defeated country to give up land and can increase the winner's influence.

Answer Key: Treaties, Continental System & Pope

Suggested elaborated answers for teacher reference

Treaties Q1: Russia and Prussia.

Treaties HOT: Treaties can transfer territory, set alliances, and change which countries hold influence.

Continental System Q1: To weaken Britain by stopping trade with it.

Continental System HOT: Countries may depend on trade, disagree with the rule, or find ways around restrictions.

Pope Q1: Pope Pius VII was the head of the Catholic Church at the time.

Pope HOT: Disagreement between political and religious leaders can lead to conflict over authority and control.

Answer Key: Russia & Sixth Coalition

Suggested elaborated answers for teacher reference

Russia Q1: Russia stopped following the Continental System.

Russia HOT: Long distances, lack of food, difficult terrain, and harsh weather can weaken soldiers and make supplies hard to deliver.

Sixth Coalition Q1: Any two: Prussia, Austria, Sweden, Russia, Britain, Spain, or Portugal.

Sixth Coalition HOT: Countries may unite because they share a concern about one country becoming too powerful.

Answer Key: Decline, Hundred Days & Death

Suggested elaborated answers for teacher reference

Decline Q1: Elba.

Decline HOT: Exile removes a ruler from power while avoiding the immediate risks of keeping him in the country.

Hundred Days Q1: The short period when Napoleon returned to power after escaping from Elba

Answer Key: Decline, Hundred Days & Death

Suggested elaborated answers for teacher reference

Decline Q1: Elba.

Decline HOT: Exile removes a ruler from power while avoiding the immediate risks of keeping him in the country.

Hundred Days Q1: The short period when Napoleon returned to power after escaping from Elba.

Waterloo HOT: Mud and wet ground can slow movement, make it harder to use equipment, and affect battle plans.

Death Q1: 5 May 1821.

Death HOT: Historians may focus on military events, laws, leadership, or effects on ordinary people.

Answer Key: Reforms & Nutshell

Suggested elaborated answers for teacher reference

Reformer Q1: It recognised achievements by civilians and members of the military.

Reformer HOT: Laws can last beyond a leader's life when later governments keep, adapt, or use them as models.

Nutshell HOT: Military legacy includes campaigns and battles; legal legacy includes the Napoleonic Code and its influence on laws.

Answer Key: Word Trove

Suggested elaborated answers for teacher reference

Word Trove 1: A royalist supports rule by a monarch.

Word Trove 2: Artillery was important because large guns could attack enemy positions and help capture strategic places.

Word Trove 3: A boycott is refusing to use or buy something as protest; an invasion is entering another place with armed forces.